RUTH ELDER AND PILOT ARE REPORTED SAFE; RESCUED AT SEA; LOCATION UNDETERMINED

Telegram Is Received at Le Bourget Field, France, from The Aviatix:—Couple Are Thought To Be Aboard Dutch Ship

Le Bourget Airdrome, France, Oct. 13.—Ruth Elder is reported "safe" to the Le Bourget Airdrome.

A telegram signed by Miss Elder was received at the airdrome this evening, stating: "Landed by steamship Barendrecht with broken oil line. Both Haldeman and I okay.—Elder."

The origin of the telegram was not entirely clear, but it appeared to have been filed from Barm Dercht, Holland, although officials stated they knew of no such town, and thought it was probable that the telegram was a radio from the steamship Barendrecht. The steamship is a Dutch vessel with Rotterdam as its home port.

LE BOURGET AERODROME, Paris, Oct. 13 (I.N.S.)—Hope that Ruth Elder and Captain George Haldeman will land here in their monoplane, "American Girl," after a flight across the Atlantic from New York, had been virtually abandoned by 1 o'clock this afternoon.

While there were some expressions of fear that the plane has met with failure or even disaster, officials of the aerodrome said it was much too soon to talk of the plane's being lost. They pointed out that the plane might have come down in the fogs over the western coast of France or even in Ireland, and that the remoteness of these spots might make it hours before news of a landing would reach the world.

During the morning an anxious crowd had waited, braving a chill fog and held hope against hope that the "American Girl" would arrive, even though flying conditions were so bad that the passenger planes leaving Le Bourget were forced to abandon their schedules. At one time there were 2,000 people crowding about the field, but by 1 o'clock this crowd had dwindled to 150 and the special police were recalled from duty.

Reports from principal ports along the French coast told of a night of dense fog and heavy seas, and these reports brought discouragement, for there were fears that if the Elder plane had landed in the sea it would not be sighted by passing ships and could not remain afloat long.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (I.N.S.)—At 5 a. m. today, the vast spaces of the Atlantic Ocean were still mute as to the fate of the airplane American Girl, carrying Miss Ruth Elder and Captain George Haldeman toward Paris. The pair had not been heard from for more than thirty hours.

By this time the intrepid girl-flier and her pilot should have been close to their goal. At daybreak they should have been nearing land, and, allowing for winds which might have blown them off their course, they should reach Paris between seven and nine o'clock this morning, New York time.

COOLIDGE TO VISIT PITTSBURGH TODAY

President to Attend Exercises Held in Connection With Founders' Day

TO SPEAK AFTER NOON

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 13 (I.N.S.)—Pittsburgh's great arms of steel will be opened wide to welcome to its heart the President and Mrs. Coolidge who will be guests of honor at the Carnegie Institute of Technology Founders' Day, here, today.

Ambitious plans are being formulated for the President's entertainment during his brief stay in Pittsburgh. He will be here only for about fifteen hours, according to Washington advices.

Arriving early in the morning on a special train with his executive staff and a party of newspapermen who keep a constant vigil over the chief executive whenever he is away from the capital, Mr. Coolidge will be taken to the historic blockhouse at the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, after a brief rest at the home of Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon.

Lis visit to the blockhouse, on the site of old Fort Pitt, will be merely one of inspection and there will be no ceremonies connected with it. From there he will ride in state through the downtown district to the Carnegie Institute.

In addition to the corps of secret service men who always are on guard against acts of violence against a President, police reserves will line the route of the Presidential party. A police escort on motorcycles will precede him.

In the forenoon the President will inspect the Institute and at noon, according to tentative plans, he and Mrs. Coolidge will be luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mellon in the Mellon mansion.

Once before the President attended Founders' Day ceremonies at the Institute. This was in April, 1921, but at (Continued on Page Six)

BURLINGTON'S PAST HISTORY LAUDED BY STOKES, WHO SPEAKS AT CELEBRATION

Shows How Quaker Settlers Paved Way for America's Freedom — Tolerance Praised — Fete Continues With Military Display

BURLINGTON, N. J., Oct. 13.—Tribute to its war heroes, living and dead, was paid by Burlington yesterday in the martial program of its 250th anniversary week. Combined with the town's celebration was the ninth anniversary of the 114th Infantry's participation in the Battle of Blois Dormant, in the Argonne, October 12, 1918. The regiment paraded in celebration, under command of Colonel Edward B. Stone, who was promoted from Captain to Major on the field of battle in the historic Argonne fight.

In keeping with the occasion was the character of a mass meeting held last night in the Auditorium Theatre, with a masterful address by former Governor Edward C. Stokes, who lauded Burlington's part in the making of State and national history.

In commencing his address, Governor Stokes noted that two hundred and fifty years ago was the time of adventure. He detailed the settlement of trading posts in Albany, in St. Augustine, in Providence, at points on the Delaware and narrated that for fifty years at least the waters of the river here had been vexed by the ships of the Dutch, the Swedes, and that the Leni-Lenape Indians had seen the smoke of new settlements, prophetic of the doom of the red skins' sovereignty. "To this land, so peopled, and so explored, came the Quaker folk who founded Burlington two hundred and fifty years ago," he declared.

After speaking of the thriftiness of the Quakers and of their independence of government in civic and religious matters, both in America and in Europe, and their tolerance of other peoples and creeds, the Governor said:

"Most of the colonies regarded any other religious doctrine than their own as a deadly sin. Not so the Quakers. Like a beacon light over the storm tossed seas, they sent a message of tolerance, liberty, humanity and brotherhood that was to be realized in the fruit of the revolution and the birth of the constitution.

"The principles of the great organic law of our country are to be found in the Concessions and Agreements adopted and amplified by the settlers of Burlington. Placed side by side with the famous Bill of Rights of our Constitution, it anticipated the former 113 years of personal liberty perhaps infringed upon, but certainly not improved in the years that have passed.

"The right of trial by jury by men of the neighborhood, a jury of the vicinage the principles that no proprietor, freeholder or inhabitant of the province be deprived of life, limb, liberty or estate of property or privileges, freedoms, or franchise without due trial, or without due process of law, are the same as the Bill of Rights except in phrasing.

"Prohibition against the levying of any tax, custom or assessment or any other duties whatsoever without the consent of the General Assembly anticipated representation. No proprietor, freeholder or inhabitant was to be attached, arrested or imprisoned except in criminal or treasonable cases without a reasonable summons which he should have at least fourteen days to answer. This provided against unreasonable searches and seizures, a feature of the Bill of Rights under discussion.

"The protection of the accused under indictment, the right to plead his own case, to punish false witnesses and to have his friends present during the trial in open court threw every safeguard around him and protected him from oppression and slavery.

"Religious liberty provided the crowning declaration. No man or number of men on earth have power or authority to rule over men's conscience in religious matters. No person whatsoever shall upon any pretence whatsoever be called in question or in the least hurt either in person or estate or privilege for his opinion, faith or worship toward God in matters of religion.

"This declaration of religious liberty shines out like a star in the darkness of the night of prejudice. Prejudice had no place, intolerance was banished. Jew, Catholic, Negro and all religions were permitted on this free Quaker soil. Nowhere else in all the world could there be found such a liberal religious spirit. These concessions were even stronger than the Bill of Rights in their details and phrasing. Neither the great charter of Virginia nor the Mayflower Compact compared with them in liberality, tolerance and the protection of individual rights. In Massachusetts, there were fifteen crimes punishable by death, when in this Quaker colony there were possibly two—murder and treason—and they were referred to the General Assembly for final decision.

"The Corrupt Practice Act was anticipated. It was provided that no person or persons shall give any meat, drink, money or money's worth to aid in the election of a member of the Assembly, and such persons so elected shall be disqualified from holding the office for seven years. Candidates of today who run on the dollar sign might take notice. In order to prevent intimidation, a secret ballot was provided instead of viva voce vote.

"Liberty of speech was guaranteed in the Assembly as it is in our Constitution, and every member of the Assembly was to be allowed a shilling a day that he may be known as the servant of the people—sometimes forgotten in this day and generation.

"The orphan was not forgotten. His estate, if he had one, was administered by the council in his interest, and if there was no estate, he was cared for by the provisions of a general tax.

"I do not over-land the founders of this colony. I am merely according them their just praise in history as the authors of civil, religious and individual liberty, that in other localities existed in the rhetoric of orators and the dreams of historians, but that here was practiced and exemplified. Field says of this charter of the Quakers: 'A finer fabric of free government was never reared. It should be enshrined in the hearts of Jersey-men.'

"Bancroft says, 'They are a people, whom I cannot bribe with gifts, honors, offices or patronage.'

"Unquestionably their advent marks a new era in the ameliorated effect of the governmental policy of the world. They were the pioneers of government by the people and they completely revolutionized the conscriptive policies of the day and established the rights of the masses. Our civilization is their gift and history will some day so declare.

"President Wilson said: 'America did not come out of the South, and it did not come out of New England. The characteristic part of America originated in the middle states, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.'

"New Jersey had known Quaker settlements for twenty-five years before Penn. When Fox had traveled across the State, in 1672, he held a meeting at Shrewsbury, numerous attended by Friends from all over the province.

"From 1656 to 1680 Quakerism was an expanding force in the colonies and it is clearly evident from their own writings that at the opening of the eighteenth century Quaker leaders expected to make their type of religion prevail on the Western Continent. Indeed there is a contrariety of opinion as to whether the Quaker migration to America resulted from persecutions at home or from a missionary spirit in seeking a new land where their religion could spread and where they could unmolested dwell."

The Governor then told in detail of the Quaker settlement of Burlington and vicinity, of deals with the Indians and of the civilization which was the outcome. Then, going into Quaker law observance, he said:

"This lesson of history teaches tolerance of judgment and of view and reminds us that we should observe a Quaker-like gentleness and hesitate before we denounce the men of today who do not agree with some of the social regulations of the hour, lest the judgment of time reverse the opinion of this generation, just as the judgment of history has vindicated the Quakers who resisted what were considered sacred and religious laws of their time.

"I am not preaching non-enforcement of law. Without it government and safety of life end. But I call attention to the fact that progress has been a protest against existing forms and statutes. Let the victims of the Spanish Inquisition, let Galileo in Astronomy, forced to recant mutter, 'but it does move,' let the Quakers of King Charles' day, let the fathers of '76, let Jenner, who discovered vaccination, let the pioneer of modern surgery and the germ theory of disease, be called to the witness to testify.

"It is no diminution of the glory that belongs to the Quakers for the founding of this colony on the rock of civil and religious life that the exponents of other creeds settled there. Rather it is a crown to their spirit of tolerance."

The Governor also discussed the military history of the city, saying: "Burlington felt the effect of wars. The Revolution tried the souls of the inhabitants. Between the presence of the Hessian troops under Colonel DuRoi and the bombardment of the town by American gendarmes and gunboats; between the Quakers who were neutral and those who bore arms and harbored soldiers, and were turned out of meeting, with the British in almost complete possession from Burlington to Trenton; with a total cessation of public worship, the fortunes of war bore heavily upon this peaceful colony.

"In the war for the Union the patriotism of the city invited General Grant who lived here from 1864 to 1865. "The record of General Grubb—praised by his Colonel at Fredericksburg, at Chancellorsville, always at the head of his regiment, hurrying to the defense of Gettysburg, one of Burlington's most chivalrous sons—is a national heritage Burlington contributed to the Union cause. This city gave to the armies of the North approximately 500 men, more than a (Continued on Page Six)

AERONAUTIC ASS'N IS ORGANIZED IN BRISTOL

Two Hundred Members And Friends Attend Meeting Here

PLAN WINTER PROGRAM

Two hundred members and friends of the local Keystone chapter of the National Aeronautic Association attended an enthusiastic meeting of that organization Tuesday evening held in the Keystone Aircraft Corporation's building on Radcliffe street.

Edgar N. Gott addressed the gathering and spoke on the principles of the organization, which has been formed with the object of bringing home to the American people the importance of aeronautics, also to foster, encourage and advance the science of aviation.

Three reels of moving pictures showing scenes of the "Around-the-world flight" accomplished by the United States Naval Air Corps, and many views of bombing tests made by the government were also shown. These reels were loaned for the occasion by the U. S. air corps.

The local chapter presided over by Charles W. Miller, planned an interesting program for the winter months, and if last Tuesday's meeting is a criterion of what is in store for the hundred or more members, much entertainment is assured.

Bracken Post Plans Ceremony For Armistice Day at St. Mark's Cemetery

THREE MADE SACRIFICE
Delegates to Paris Convention Visit Graves of Bristol Lads

Fitting ceremonies are being planned for Armistice Day, November 11th, here, when members of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, will sponsor a service in connection with the burial of the soil taken from the graves of three Bristol boys, who lie buried in France.

The three who served their country during the World War, and paid the supreme sacrifice are: Bernard McIlvaine and Angelo Angelilli, whose remains were interred in Montfaucon Cemetery; and Rocco Scandore, who rests in another section of France.

Sailing from New York on September 8th, to attend the American Legion convention in Paris, Messrs. Harry F. Burbank and Bernard J. Murray, both affiliated with the Bracken Post, carried in miniature caskets portions of soil from the yards of the homes of the three who lost their lives on foreign soil.

In these solid mahogany boxes, on which were appropriate name plates, there were placed small satin bags which held the soil. At Montfaucon the two representatives of the Bristol post and the borough, stood for a few minutes in silence, and then tenderly placed upon the graves the soil which had but recently been about the homes of the Bristol lads. Then a small portion of earth was taken up from the resting places and put into the satin bags.

The two returned to Bristol on Tuesday, and at the ceremonies on Armistice Day at 10 a. m., the soil will be buried in lower St. Mark's Cemetery.

The school children and the populace of Bristol have been extended invitations to participate, and the Legionnaires will likewise be present, garbed in their uniforms.

Bristol Borough Council appropriated $100 to pay the expenses of emblems of respect which were placed upon the graves of the three Bristol boys in France.

Hulmeville Lad Has A Narrow Escape From Death

Edward B. Canby, of Hulmeville, had a narrow escape from death yesterday morning when an automobile in which he was riding dropped down a twenty-foot embankment and landed on top of some trees on the River Road, a short distance this side of Lambertville, N. J.

The car left the road at a turn and after climbing over a row of heavy stones plunged down a steep embankment. Some small trees at the bottom prevented the car from going into the canal. The trees also broke Canby's fall and he escaped with only a shaking up.

Canby was driving toward Trenton about 2 o'clock in the morning and was about a mile out of Lambertville when he met with the accident. Corporal John Wallace, of the Lambertville State Police, who made an investigation, says he believes that Canby fell asleep while driving. The stones used for protection skirt the road for some distance and are high in places. How Canby's car climbed over these stones is a mystery.

A block and fall was erected at the scene yesterday and the car, which was badly damaged, was raised to the road. It was towed to Gilroy's garage at Lambertville.

THE COUNTY SEAT SCORES

Bucks County scored throughout last week by another fine feature in the form of a fair at the county seat.

Unlike what would usually be expected from an affair of such nature in a town the size of Doylestown was the fifth annual fair. The thing that drew particular comment, and which the town and county, as well as the owners might well take just pride in was the art exhibit.

Most of the paintings were executed at the Delaware Valley colony near New Hope and were well worth seeing. Many were the visitors to the Valley colony since the location there within the past few years. To that section there have gone many interested in art, and among them are many whose names are familiar to those interested in work of the painting world.

Each year the fair association has endeavored to bring before the public not only that which is unique but those things right within the confines of Bucks that are well worth seeing.

The placing of an art exhibit this year brought forth many favorable comments, and not only Bucks Countians, but many from every section viewed them.

The growth of the said fair, in the departments which have been sponsored for years as well as the newer features, was splendid, and there were to be found the best the county had to offer. Many took advantage of this opportunity to see many of the worth-while things executed and grown in the county within one or two days' time.

DRAMA A LA CIRCUS

Veteran actors bemoan the fact that the "road" is no more. They lament the passing of the "one night stand." The change put an end to the joke of the "ghost" that failed to walk in Peoria, and the cartoon of the theatrical troupe walking the ties back to the Rialto.

A great many things conspired to obliterate the "road." Chicanery in the profession itself played a big part, for the "provinces" lost interest in "original Broadway productions" composed of palpably third rate actors. The motion picture helped. In any event, only cities now have theaters and even they have difficulty in booking productions.

There are producers, however, who believe that the pay streak beyond the limits of the big cities has not been altogether exhausted. They intend to do some prospecting. In order to do so they must revert to the ways and means of the pioneer, for the country theaters since supplanted occasional bookings with a new film every day. One of the Broadway successes will do the prospecting in a tent. In this way it will play in towns on the "tank circuit" which never boasted a playhouse.

The plan appears to have possibilities. There are many towns, weary of moving pictures and vaudeville, that would welcome the return of the legitimate drama. Much, however, depends upon the way in which the theater goes about the task of winning back the "sticks."

Educated by the movies and periodic patronizing of the city theater, the people in the hinterland will have even less patience than before with the mediocre production and will be more appreciative of the excellent presentation.

Drama under canvas seems like going back to the primitive, but the end may justify the means.

Sheriff's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of a writ of Venditioni Exponas to me directed, will be sold at public sale, on Friday, the 21st day of October, 1927, at 11 o'clock A. M., at the Sheriff's Office, in the Borough of Doylestown, Bucks County, Pa., the following real estate, to wit:

ALL THAT CERTAIN lot or piece of ground with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, SITUATE in the Sixth Ward of the Borough of Bristol, County of Bucks and State of Pennsylvania, being designated and known as No. 2115 Wilson Avenue, BOUNDED AND DESCRIBED according to a plan and survey thereof made by John P. Taylor, Surveyor, dated February 18th, 1925, as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the Northwesterly side of Wilson Avenue at the distance of seventy-seven and eighty-six one hundredths feet Northeastwardly from the Easterly side of Cleveland Street; thence North fifty-eight degrees fifty-five minutes West, crossing the bed of a certain four feet wide alley, leading from the premises herein described into Cleveland Street, eighty-three feet to a point; thence along the Northwesterly side of said alley, South thirty-one degrees five minutes West seven and eighty-six one hundredths feet to a point; thence North fifty-eight degrees fifty-five minutes West twenty-seven feet to a point; thence North thirty-one degrees five minutes East eighty-four and seventy-five one hundredths feet to a point; thence South fifty-eight degrees fifty-five minutes East twenty-seven feet to a point in the Northwesterly side of a certain other four feet wide alley leading from the premises herein described into McKinley Street; thence along the Northwesterly side of said last mentioned alley, South thirty-one degrees five minutes West eight and four tenths feet to a point; thence South fifty-eight degrees fifty-five minutes East eighty-three feet to a point in the Northwesterly side of Wilson Avenue, thence along the said Northwesterly side of Wilson Avenue, South thirty-one degrees five minutes West sixty-eight and eighty-five one hundredths feet to the place of Beginning.

TOGETHER with the right, liberty and privilege to the free and common use of the said two four feet wide alleys, together with the other owners, users or occupiers of other premises abutting on said alleys, as and for passageways and water courses at all times hereafter, forever, and

TOGETHER with the right, liberty and privilege to the use of a strip of ground, two feet wide belonging to the premises adjoining the premises hereinabove described on the Southwest and leading from Wilson Avenue to the alley hereinabove mentioned, leading from the premises hereinabove described into Cleveland Street, as and for a passageway and watercourse at all times hereafter forever, and

ALSO TOGETHER with the right, liberty and privilege to use a piece or strip of ground, two feet wide, abutting on the Northeast and leading from Wilson Avenue to the four feet wide alley hereinabove mentioned, leading from the premises hereinabove described into McKinley Street.

THIS mortgage is one of six mortgages of even date covering the same premises and intended to be recorded at the same time, the others of which are given by the said mortgagor to the said mortgagee to secure the separate bonds aggregating the principal sum of Six Thousand Dollars and it is intended that the said six mortgages shall not have priority one over the other, but shall be of equal lien and that a judicial sale of the mortgaged premises on any of the said mortgages shall discharge the lien of all the said mortgages and that they shall share pro rata in the distribution of any funds produced by said sale.

The improvements are a two-story frame and stucco apartment building 59 x 108 feet containing 12 rooms and 2 baths on the first floor and 12 rooms and 2 baths on the second floor.

Seized and taken in execution as the property of Henry F. David and to be sold by Slowing Up?

Waste Poisons in the Blood Make One Tired and Inefficient.

DO you rise lame and stiff? Drag through the day, listless and depressed? Evening find you all worn out? Have you given any thought to your kidneys?

Sluggish kidneys allow waste poisons to remain in the blood and make one tired and languid with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common warning of sluggish kidney action is scanty or burning secretions. Assist the kidneys with Doan's Pills. Doan's have been used since 1885. Are recommended the country over. The cigarette that earned first place by its goodness

The greatest endorsement ever given to a cigarette is revealed by the fact that Government figures show that more Camels are being smoked today than ever before. An endorsement by the many—not the few.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes that time he was vice-president, acting in the absence of President Warren G. Harding.

It will be the third time a President in office has honored the occasion with his presence. President William McKinley attended in 1897, and in 1910 it was President William Howard Taft.
Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson also were Founders' Day guests, but at the time neither was President. Cleveland had retired from office and Wilson was president of Princeton.
A few hours after he finishes speaking, President Coolidge will board his private car and make the return trip to Washington.

ABINGTON TO PLAY IN BRISTOL TOMORROW

By T. M. Juno

Bristol High will meet one of its stiffest foes of the season tomorrow when it lines up against the strong Abington eleven, which defeated La Salle Prep. in the opening game of the season.
Last year Abington walked away with a 12-0 victory, but three times Bristol had the ball on the one yard line, but could not take the ball over.
Coach Townsend has had the boys practicing all week and every one is "arin' to go." Coach Townsend expressed his confidence in the boys by saying, "We will give Bristol what it has wished for two years, a victory over Abington."
Bristol has been going at a fast rate, beating Newtown, 53-0; Berwyn, 6-0, and Mount Holly, 19-0, scoring a total of 78 points, while all its opponents have been held scoreless.

Tomorrow's game marks the end of a long home stay for Bristol High, which travels to Lambertville, Ambler and Cheltenham. Their final home-stay will include Springfield, Hatboro and Temple High.
Carnival will start tomorrow's game at center, Winslow and Satterthwaite will be at the guard positions, while De Risi and Shiffer will be tackle mates. The ends are likely to be Opdyke and Wright.
Strumfels, Slatoff, Spadaccino, Arison or Earle, will be in the back-field.

Burlington's Past History

third of the voters—an enlistment in proportion to the population unsurpassed by any other city in the State. Some of the boys from here were in the Sixth New Jersey that participated in every engagement of the Army of the Potomac except Antietam. In one Burlington company were three members of one family, John Spencer and two sons, all of whom gave their lives on the altar of the republic. Parker Grubb, honored in the title of a Grand Army Post, was one of the memorable martyrs of the Union cause. Other accounts of personal heroism that outdid the knights of Medieval days could be chronicled if time permitted. The rescue of the colors at the Second Battle of Bull Run by Sergeant Connors with half a dozen of whom paid with life or wound for that act of sentimental daring. The rescue of Noah E. Lippincott at the Battle of Williamsburg by James Phillips and Charles Farner—young devils who didn't know what danger was, as their captains said—these are but single stars in a constellation of daring deeds on Burlington's scroll of martial fame.

The day's celebration was rich in military color. In addition to the 114th Infantry Regiment, there were also in the parade a battalion of the 112th Field Artillery, details of the Naval Reserves, two companies of sailors from the cruisers Wyoming and Oklahoma, and two companies of Marines from League Island. Burlington County Post of the American Legion made the finest turnout in its history in another division. Cadets of the Borden Military Academy, war nurses, members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion and county troops of Boy Scouts concluded the line.

In a floral float with a guard of honor were Burlington's four surviving veterans of the Civil War.

As a feature of the celebration, the new States National Guard Armory, on South High street, was dedicated and turned over to Company K, of the 114th, Captain Sever commanding, as its permanent home. Colonel Thomas D. Landon, of Bordentown, made the dedicatory address and paid an eloquent tribute to the Burlington boys who went over the top with the 114th nine years ago today. The regiment, he said, took the keystone of the German line in the Argonne with terrific loss of life.

Commemorating the action of Continental gunboats in the Revolution, in driving a detachment of Hessians from Burlington, the U. S. Navy sent the submarine chaser N-52 to the city yesterday with a naval detachment. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, in person, escorted by the dirigible Los Angeles, will attend the celebration today and with former U. S. Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen will address a civic meeting.

Prominent military men attended yesterday's celebration. General Frederick Gilkyson was the ranking officer present. General Gilmore and General Price, absent in France, were represented by their staff. Among those at the reviewing stand with
